Grade Level: 5 | Word Count: 313 | Lexile 1000

Early Life

Henry Morrison Flagler was born on January 2, 1830, in Hopewell, New York. He grew up in a modest family and left school at age 14 to work. His first job was at a grain store, where he learned the basics of business. This early experience shaped his future success.

Business Ventures

Flagler moved to Ohio as a young man and worked in the salt and grain industry. Later, he partnered with John D. Rockefeller to start the Standard Oil Company in 1870. This company became the largest oil business in the United States, and Flagler became very wealthy.

Building Florida

In the 1880s, Flagler visited Florida and saw its potential for tourism. At the time, Florida was mostly undeveloped, with poor transportation. Flagler decided to change that. He built luxury hotels and improved the state's infrastructure. Most importantly, he expanded the Florida East Coast Railway, connecting cities along the Atlantic coast.

Impact and Legacy

Flagler's work transformed Florida. Cities like Palm Beach, Miami, and Key West grew because of his vision. He made it possible for visitors and settlers to travel easily. Henry Flagler died on May 20, 1913, in Palm Beach, Florida. Today, he is remembered as a founder of modern Florida.
